Dear Sir,

A question has arisen this morning in a letter from Mr. J. H. Hogg, photographer, of Stricklandgate, Kendal, who states that the photographs which you sent us and we reproduced in our issue of June 22nd, were the copyright of himself and appears to be upset in regard to the matter, under the Copyright Act. Privately, this might be a very serious question, and we have written him saying that of course the fees shall be paid in any case, but that in the meantime we are just communicating with you in the matter, as they were sent to us by you, as you will remember, with a request for as much publicity as possible, with which request, you will recollect, we duly complied as we always shall be very happy to do in your case. We shall be glad to know how you stand in the matter, as of course in inserting them we accepted them coming from you as not being copyright, that is, that they had been taken on your behalf and paid for. We shall be glad to hear from you at once, so that we may communicate further with Mr. Hogg.

Yours faithfully,

The Editor
